PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Greg Van Schaack (USCTA President)

Dear Fellow Member:

Last year's Annual Report featured Chicago on the cover. This year is Boston's turn to shine as the Tennis & Racquet Club successfully negotiated a deed restriction that assures the continuation of the Boston tennis court into the foreseeable future. After a highly successful fund raising campaign lead by the T&R's very capable president, Suzy Schwartz, the roof repair work was completed. I was very pleased with the generosity of our court tennis community. With the help of the USCTA's auction proceeds in 2013, we were able to join with many other concerned players and club members to raise over $700,000.

Speaking of court development, I am pleased to report that Court Tennis Charleston is making good progress to fund the building of a new court on Daniel Island. With over $500,000 of pledges, we are well on our way to reaching our goal of $1.5million. Architectural plans are complete and we have signed a fantastic deal with the Daniel Island Club for the land and the management of the court. All members of the USCTA are encouraged to make a pledge (no amount is too small). Our goal is 100% participation of all USCTA members.

On the game front, the highlight of the year in the U.S. was with the professionals. The USCTA National League gained momentum, as there was greater gallery participation than ever. The matches were close and fun. In the final match with New England (Riviere & Smith) v. New York (Stout & Tanfield), the New Englanders proved too strong for the New Yorkers and took the match 3-0. The host club, Prince's Court, gathered over a hundred members to watch the match and enjoy the camaraderie.

U.S. Open Doubles Champions - Camden Riviere & Tim Chisholm

The Eliminators were played on an even more serious note, as the outcome determined who would challenge Rob Fahey for the World Championship. Camden Riviere defeated Tim Chisholm in straight sets in Newport and Tuxedo and Steve Virgona beat Bryn Sayers 7-5 at Queens and Chicago. At the Final Eliminator in Chicago, Camden was impeccable, beating Steve 7-0 to gain the right to challenge Rob. Attendance was high at all the Eliminators, and everything came off flawlessly.

On to the World Championship in Melbourne, where my money was on Camden, albeit I'm biased to say the least. Things started well for our American, as he took the first two sets, but an injury and a talented and fiercely determined Rob Fahey was just too much to overcome and Cam lost 7-3. (Camden extracted a little revenge by beating Rob in the U.S. Professional Singles the following month in Newport). On the junior front, it was made pretty clear to us in our most recent showings in the Van Alen and Clothier Cups that our junior program is in need of serious attention.

To that end, the USCTA, the USCTPF; and the Grassi Family have joined together to fund a series of initiatives to enhance our junior player interest, talent, and performance. The initiatives include clinics, camps and individual instruction for promising junior players. My special thanks go to Temple and Ellie Grassi for their generous gifts to this program and to our professionals who are implementing it. Finally, this is my last president's report. I'm pleased with the accomplishments of my administration which include helping with the restoration of two courts, beginning the building of another in Charleston, increasing our positive cash position, and almost doubling USCTA membership.

My thanks and praise go to Arnold Spangler, Treasurer; Lex Miron and Jim Zug, Secretary; Peter Vogt, Membership Secretary; and Peter Pell, First Vice President. I also wish to thank Jane Lippincott for her dedication both on and off the Board to our sport and the communications that we provide for the membership. I know you will all welcome my successor, Mr. Jeremy "record all scores" Wintersteen as your incoming president. Jeremy has been a tremendous asset to our game in his leadership of the U.S. Open Rules Committee and I know he will bring his administrative talents and attention to detail to his new position as your president! I wish you all the very best in your endeavors to improve at our beautiful game. And let us all remember it is just that, a game—we're not curing cancer or solving the Middle East conflict; we're playing a wonderful, engaging sport. Be serious about your practice, want to win, but keep it in perspective. Sportsmanship, courtesy, and traditions are what make our game great.

Yours Respectfully,

Greg Van Schaack
President

HISTORY OF THE USCTA

The first reference to tennis in the Americas extant in the historical record is a decree against playing tennis on Sundays, issued by the Governor of New Amsterdam, Peter Stuyvesant, on October 26, 1656. The centuries that followed were replete with further proof that some version of the “game of kings” was being played in North America. In October 1876, exactly a year and a half after the newly invented game of lawn tennis came to these shores, Hollis Hunnewell and Nathaniel Thayer opened the first bona fide court tennis facility on Buckingham Street in Boston. Over the course of the next 120 years, 18 more courts were built; today there are ten active courts in the US, the oldest in Newport (1880) and the youngest in Chicago (2012).

The United States Court Tennis Association, under the leadership of its first president William L. Van Alen, initially convened on January 30, 1955 in New York. Prior to that time there was no central authority to regulate, promote, and preserve the game in the United States. Indeed, when the Laws of Tennis in America were first adopted on New Year’s Day 1934, just three clubs – The Racquet & Tennis Club, The Racquet Club of Philadelphia, and The Tennis & Racquet Club – were signatories.

ADMINISTRATION

Besides the promulgation of tennis rules, which were revised in 1979 and again in 2000, the Association has the authority to coordinate and control all national championships and major competitions, and in conjunction with its member clubs, organize and conduct tournaments for all levels of play in America. The USCTA sets the annual tournament schedule and supplies the national level competition medals. The governing body raises funds through membership dues and contributions and by hosting such events as the U.S. Court Tennis Association Annual Dinner and Auction. The USCTA financially backs the construction, maintenance, and restoration of courts, and supports the development of female and junior players. The Association conducts relations with other national governing bodies around the world, promotes international play, and supports the U.S. at international competitions.

PROFESSIONAL TENNIS

One of its most essential functions is the vigorous support of professionals in America, without whom the continued existence of the game would be precarious. The Association provides prize money for tournaments such as the National Open, the World Championship, the U.S. Professional Singles playing for the Schochet Cup and the Men’s and Ladies U.S. Opens.

Silver Racquet Tournament

AMATEUR TENNIS

The Association also encourages top flight amateur play. It began publishing a list of the Top 25 U.S. Amateur Players in 2004 in order to stimulate competition and increase the level of play, particularly among mid to upper level players. The USCTA also promotes team competition by supplying teams and backing for such international tournaments as the Bathurst Cup.

JUNIOR TENNIS

The USCTA is committed to ensuring the future of the sport in America through an active Junior Tennis program. It offers workshops and professional instruction as well as creates opportunities for young players to compete by funding international teams and supports U.S. tournaments like the Junior Nationals and the Lieb Cup.

PUBLICATIONS

The USCTA publishes an Annual Report, a monthly e-newsletter “Chase the First,” a fixtures calendar, Top 25 rankings, e-mail news, and other announcements. The USCTA, in conjunction with the USCTPF, also maintains a website.

TREASURER'S REPORT 2013-2014

Arnold Spangler (USCTA Treasurer)

For the fiscal year ending September 30, 2014, we project that we will be in a strong financial position. Our cash is expected to grow from last year and be back at the $150,000 level. It has been our philosophy to maintain a healthy cash balance in order to support our membership activities, meet our existing expenditures, and finance new initiatives.

Our revenues from membership dues have continued to grow with the opening of the Chicago court and the addition of new members, including more women and juniors to our ranks. Our auction proceeds have continued to be an important source of income. This year's auction raised slightly less than the previous year which was a record. Additionally, over the last few years we have sold ad space in our annual report to help offset publication costs.

We have attempted to continue our policy of holding our expenses in line through careful budgeting. One of our largest expenses is prize money for our professionals. We again made contributions to the U.S. Open, National Open, U.S. Pro Singles for the Schochet Cup, and the National League. In the past we have also supported the U.S. Ladies Open tournament. Recently, we agreed with the United States Court Tennis Preservation Foundation to jointly underwrite a major new initiative for our junior development program.

Our other big financial commitment over the last few years has been to our communications group. They have worked hard to integrate existing member records and update our membership database to include current addresses and contact information. Our web site also has been upgraded and expanded to become the primary source of our communications with our members. Tournament schedules and results, relevant articles, pictures, and other pertinent information are now reported in a timely fashion. Another major expense is our annual report. Its publication is a major undertaking and continues to be the source of the yearly historical record. It has been greatly improved and well received by the playing community. Other miscellaneous expenses such as insurance, special events, postage and meeting costs continue to grow.

For the future, we believe it will be important to keep our financial condition healthy in order to serve our growing membership needs and to meet a number of new initiatives and programs as our game expands. We again thank the USCTA members for their strong and enthusiastic support of the Association and its activities.

We will make available the financials for the 2013-2014 fiscal year as soon as our accountants finish them in the fall.

Respectfully submitted,
Arnold E. Spangler

UNITED STATES COURT TENNIS PRESERVATION FOUNDATION

William F. McLaughlin, Jr. (USCTPF Chairman)

The U.S. Court Tennis Preservation Foundation, now in its 20th year of operation, helps support the development and growth of Court Tennis in the United States. Working in concert with individuals, the various courts, and the USCTA, we seek to encourage more and better players, enhance new court development, improve existing courts where applicable, and work diligently to develop the game further.

Because of your generosity to the USCTPF:

Player Development – A comprehensive campaign to develop junior, elite junior, women, and “A” level players has recently been approved by both the USCTA and USCTPF boards. With leadership funding from the Thornedge Foundation along with the Sand Dollar Foundation, the USCTA, and general Foundation funds, this program is national and far reaching in scope. Developed via a unique partnership involving the USCTA, the USCTPF, the professionals, and all of the clubs, a truly collaborative effort has resulted in a blueprint for all player development at the national level. We hope you feel its impact in your home court and in tournament results here and abroad for years to come.

Boston Court Restoration – The now completed Boston court restoration was a unique project funded by a wide assortment of interested players. Protecting this beautiful court and returning it to wonderful condition was a project led by the Tennis & Racquet Club group with leadership from Suzy Schwartz.

Philadelphia Court Repairs – In partnership with several committed individual and Foundation donors the USCTPF is able to help preserve this court for the many who come to visit from other parts of the U.S. and abroad. The Philadelphia court has a unique and long lasting role in the development of new players and professionals and hosting prominent tournaments on the national schedule. Thanks to Peter Vogt for his leadership here.

Junior Player Events/Travel – The USCTPF funds our international, and in some cases national, travel and event costs for junior players. Supporting the Van Alen and Clothier Cup events is a key objective of both the Foundation and the USCTA, and an area in which we encourage your generous support. If you or a family member have been a beneficiary of these events in one way or another, please consider helping to fund this truly unique and worthwhile experience for players to come.

Real Tennis Online (RTO) – Our international handicap and scoring system is now the standard tool used globally for keeping our handicaps recorded and up to date. The USCTPF, in an effort led by Haven Pell, established a unique ownership format encompassing all of the national governing bodies around the world. The USCTA, as the game’s governing body in the U.S., has been designated as the primary contact.

Georgian Court – We continue to support efforts to promote play through clinics and as a destination for touring groups. This magnificently restored court should see more play than it does and this is now a focus area for the Foundation.

Dedicated Funds – The USCTPF is pleased to act as financial steward and prudent manager for the various special purpose funds listed below.

- John Lieb Endowment Fund
- Schochet Cup Endowment Fund
- Prince’s Court Operating and Junior Development Funds
- New Court Development Fund
- Philadelphia Court Restoration Fund
- Charleston New Court Fund

The Foundation appreciates greatly the trust which has been placed in it as the recipient of tax deductible grants to advance court tennis. After two decades of hard work on the part of many, the track record is building. Please contact us about your ideas and projects you may wish to support.

If you would like further information about the Foundation including our IRS Form 990 and financials, please contact me or our treasurer, Jane Lippincott.

RAISE THE ROOF: THE TENNIS & RACQUET CLUB RENOVATES

By James Zug

It really began on the last day of January 2009. Like every season, the Tennis & Racquet Club hosted a full slate of events on Boylston Street during 2008-09: the U.S. Ladies Open in November, the annual Patriot Cup and a holiday exhibition match in December, the Burke and Wharton level championships in February, National League matches, a touring side from Newcastle and a Camden Riviere v. Charlotte Cornwallis match a la Bobby Riggs & Billie Jean King—all without a hitch.

But in late January, during the U.S. 50s singles and doubles, trouble came. They got in the Friday matches, but that night it rained and it continued to rain all of Saturday and all of Sunday. “I had to cancel the rest of tournament,” said Jimmy Burke, the head pro at the T&R. “It put the club and me and everyone in an awkward, painful position.”

How can a court tennis event be rained out?

It can when the roof is failing. There had been sporadic issues and temporary fixes with the T&R’s roof for a long while and rain or melting snow sometimes meant a few damp spots or a quick toweling off. But in the first years of the new century it began to get worse. At times pieces of concrete from the roof would fall down and land on the floor—once Burke spotted a chunk the size of a brick. The rain took the finish off the floor, discoloring it and giving inconsistent bounces. Some of the Thursday night league matches had to be postponed. The court was after more than a century increasingly in need of a fundamental renovation. “It was demoralizing to watch the court deteriorate over the years,” said Burke, who arrived at the T&R in September 1986. “It was time for a change.” Meetings and discussions after the cancelled U.S. 50s led to a plan. Dev Hamlen, the owner of 939 Boylston, signed a restrictive covenant with the T&R that ensured that the court and dedans on the third floor would always be in perpetuity devoted to tennis (additionally, the racquets court received a twenty-five year covenant).

Boston - The Finished Project

Tom Dobbins, the longtime manager of the club, headed the repair efforts. All the proposals and bids were analyzed and permits signed. The club had meetings with neighborhood associations. Everything was ready to go and then the great scaffolding shortage of 2012 occurred. Boston was out of scaffolding—perhaps because of the remnant work from the Big Dig—and the club had to wait until 2013 to do the work.

Boston "Raise the Roof" Dinner

The fundraising effort meanwhile was going full-bore. A key decision was to align the club with the Preservation Foundation. This meant that the T&R became a public club and it enabled all donations to be tax-deductible. George Bell and Jeremy Wintersteen spearheaded the project. One hundred percent of the T&R's board pledged, as did many members of the USCTA and members of the T&R who didn't play tennis. The club charged an assessment, but a small one because so many people in the game stepped up.

There were two milestones in the fundraising: in 2011 when Ellie and Temple Grassi gave $100,000 to catalyze the fundraising and then a year later at the Chicago opening when they donated an additional $50,000. Then the USCTA, at its board meeting that same weekend in Chicago, agreed to donate the proceeds from the upcoming 2012 annual dinner auction, an amount that turned out to be $57,000. "Those were the two key inflection points in the effort," said Suzy Schwartz, the president of the T&R. "Temple and Ellie enabled us to get started, they were the major gift we needed to show everyone that this would happen. And the USCTA, for the first time in its history, decided to give its auction proceeds to a particular project. This showed us that the leaders of the game and indeed all of the game had confidence in our efforts. It was pretty meaningful to have that happen in Chicago that particular weekend—that at the same exact moment we were reopening a court we were deciding that we could not lose an old one."

Interior Under Construction

The actual work finally proceeded in 2013. There were a few hiccups. Because the building is historic, the new roof had to be lined with copper, even though no one can see the roof from the street (you can glimpse the shining copper roof when you fly into Logan Airport). And there were some surprises when the roof was uncovered, including a gap and lack of insulation in parts of the roof. After much debate the club decided to grind the floor and resurface it. "The original idea was to just fix the roof but then we thought why do that when we can finally repair the floor that the leaky roof damaged? We didn't want a ball to bounce on a crack in the floor on the first weekend of play and hit Temple in the head."

Ironically, court usage and interest in the game at the T&R went up during the years when the club was unable to hold tournaments and many afternoons players had to call the club to ask if the court was dry enough to play. The number of Boston players on RTO went from 168 in 2009 to 187 in 2013 and from 88 members of the USCTA to 99. In other words, the club was primed for a renovated court.

At the end of October 2013 the T&R hosted a gala "Raise the Roof" event to mark the official reopening of the court. Jimmy Burke and Tony Hollins hosted tennis supporters from every club in the U.S. and clubs around the world. Thirty doubles teams faced off in five divisions. Nine of the thirty-five eight-game pro set matches went to 7-all; a further eight ended with 8-6 scorelines—very tight, exciting handicap play. And Camden Riviere and Tim Chisholm, both formerly at the T&R, came back to put on an exhibition with Hollins and Rich Smith. (Additionally, a racquets doubles draw attracted eighteen players.)

Jammed-packed cocktail parties, champagne toasts, completely filled galleries and dedans and a black-tie dinner at the Union Club—it was a very memorable weekend. “It was amazing to be a part of a project that saw the United States tennis community come together to bring the Boston court back to life,” said Tony Hollins. The transformation didn’t just reignite a passion in the existing players at the club; it also caught the eye of members who had never thought of stepping onto the court before. Since the reopening we’ve had more than forty new faces on the court and seen a huge increase in court usage.”

After the court came back into play, morale shot back up and the booking sheet got congested. The club hosted a half dozen tournaments through the winter, touring sides and a lot of curious visitors who had been playing tennis for years but never had been able to get on the court in Boston. This past summer, the sixty summer members at the T&R jumped at the chance to play on the new court.

Club Reports 2013-2014

NEWPORT, RI (1880)
NATIONAL TENNIS CLUB
By Stephen J. De Voe III

The past season has been a good one for the National Tennis Club (NTC). We have seen our membership grow, our finances remain positive, our players' performances improve, and our tournaments thrive — thanks to the welcoming environment created by our club professionals. We are truly blessed, nevertheless, we are and will be working tirelessly to improve in all of the aforementioned areas.

Membership has increased slightly over the past year with all categories at or near all-time highs. We are particularly pleased with the growth in women and junior memberships. These two groups represent an underdeveloped resource for us and we intend to work on making our game attractive to both groups. We aim to include all of our members and professionals in the overall recruiting process by maintaining a friendly and welcoming environment for all new players, particularly fueled by our popular "Taste of Tennis" program. The process is clearly working. We reached a turning point in court usage this year as the one hour and fifteen minute time allotment had to be reduced to one hour to create more slots for members and guests to play. As a result, court usage reached a level exceeding 95%. The club room is usually busy with a number of players coming and going. This high court usage is facilitated by our professionals who do their best to see that no one is stood up and doubles matches actually include four players. Our posting of scores in the RTO System continues to be the highest for all US courts, making our members' handicaps more accurate for play both here and abroad. Newport players continue to travel to all parts of the world to compete and carry the banner and message that court tennis is alive and well in Newport. As we are wont to say, Newport is a very warm and welcoming place. Come and play with us. You won't regret it.

The NTC hosts a number of tournaments throughout the year. All of these events are set up and managed by our tennis chairman, Brewer Rowe, and our head pro Richard Smith. With the support of our Board and all the members, we are fortunate to host two top tier events each year: the United States Professional Singles playing for the Schochet Cup, in which the highest levels of court tennis in the world are on display; and the Pell Cup in August, which features a wide range of talented players both amateur and professional. Both of these events bring the world's best to Newport. This year was no exception with nine of the world's top ten playing in the U.S. Pro. All in attendance were treated to awesome matches from the preliminary rounds through to the finals. Both Camden Riviere and Rob Fahey were kind enough to participate after their grueling duel in the World Championship. This time Camden came out on top, winning in four sets. The final was a wonderful morning of tennis with both players in good form, demonstrating excellent sportsmanship and brilliant tennis. This event could not happen without the steadfast support of all of our sponsors. We give thanks to all of our sponsors — particularly Jay Schochet and Northfield Information Services — whose support, combined with many generous donors, provides one of the largest tournament purses in our game. If you haven't been to the U.S. Pro/Schochet Cup, please join us next June. Newport weather is clear and inviting, all the pros are here – Why not you? On a very partisan note we could not have been more proud of our own new pro Ricardo Smith who advanced to the semifinals in his first tournament under the NTC banner. Ricardo finished the tournament ranked sixth in the world and we are fortunate to have him as one of our pros.

On the national front, Pat Winthrop continues to hold one of the top rankings on this side of the pond along with several of the more prestigious titles. Amanda Avedissian is ranked no. 1 for U.S. Women (no. 7 in the world) and Petra Napolitano in the top 15. Board member Kaveh Nazemoff won the Hickey Cup. On the junior side, John Harkins won the U.S. National Under 18 title and John along with Pete Dickinson won the Under 18 junior doubles title. John was also the recipient of the USCTA's Most Improved Junior Player Award presented in December at the USCTA Annual Awards dinner. Our fifteen to twenty juniors enjoy two lessons a week courtesy of the foresight of the late John Lieb and the Lieb Foundation. While we are proud of our own junior program, we are excited about the prospects for an active national junior program thanks to the generosity of Ellie and Temple Grassi through the Thornedge Foundation which will benefit both our own junior players, and those throughout the country. Both of our pros are excited to work on the recruitment and development of junior players in Newport and throughout the country.

On the physical side of things, the International Tennis Hall of Fame, which is responsible for the maintenance of our physical plant, continues to keep the court free of most leaks and the facility in good shape. Board member John Damon takes care of everything they don't and with the guidance of Bill Burgin, former President and current Board member, continues to upgrade those areas that need improvement. The environment is clean and welcoming thanks to their efforts.

Last year we finally moved into the twenty-first century with a new web site. We put a tremendous amount of energy and time in making sure it is accurate, timely and useful. This effort is managed by Board member Petra Napolitano and her committee. We record all of our tournament scores as they happen and make an effort to keep members informed when a group travels to any other venue by posting their results as they become available. Please visit our site www.nationaltennisclub.org to view what is happening, what's going to happen, tournament draws and, of course, some great pictures. Inspired by the world's video streaming we are in the process of upgrading our audio-visual capabilities but more of that in next year's report. All I can say is it's going to be really good. Live video streaming has become a major part of our game and we are in the process of upgrading our own audio-visual capabilities. Look for our report next year, in the meantime, all I can say is that it is going to be really good.

With regard to professionals the NTC continues to be blessed. Ricardo Smith joined us in January. A better young senior professional cannot be found. He has made himself at home and together with Richard Smith, our long time Head Professional makes quite a duo. Tom Rowe said this last year and it has only gotten better, "Quite simply we have two of the best pros in the game. They make the club a pleasant place to visit, they teach us how to play the game, and they make the total experience one of pure pleasure." I can't add anything to that except "Thanks Guys." So it's on to next year... I can hardly wait.

LAKEWOOD, NJ (1899)
 GEORGIAN COURT
 By James Zug

Lakewood, under the direction of Schuyler Wickes, has had another fine season.

It was an historic one: it was exactly a hundred years ago when Lakewood's greatest product, Jay Gould, won the men's world championship, 7-1 in Philadelphia in March 1914. Gould's victory was the only time an American-born player became world champion between the start of regular competition in 1885 and Norty Knox capturing it in 1959.

This year was also the first time Georgian Court University enrolled male undergraduates, so men began to regularly gather again on the famous court.

For the third year in a row, Neil Smith was the professional-in-residence, a role for which the USCTA gave him the 2013 Professional of the Year Award. Smith is the first regular pro at Lakewood since Frank Forester held court more than a century ago. Smith led twenty-five Tuesday night clinics over the course of the school year, again inspiring the GCU community to take advantage of their precious court. One player, Melissa Mikkelsen, ended up attending tennis tournaments in New York, Philadelphia and Aiken and led an effort to charter an undergraduate tennis club at GCU. Mikkelsen also ordered some new GCU tennis kit, prominently featuring the new, Jon Crowell designed logo.

The fifth-annual Lakewood Invitational again came off in September. As usual, it was anchored by players from Boston and Washington meeting halfway in between in central New Jersey. All players got in at least five sets of doubles.

In the spring, Jesmond Dene came through and like all other tennis players on tour, were amazed at this special court. There are thirty-five Vermeer paintings in the world and there are thirty-seven clubs around the world where you can play a proper game of tennis. In other words, Lakewood is like a rare Vermeer.

TUXEDO PARK (1900)

TUXEDO CLUB

By Josh Scherer

The resurgence of court tennis at Tuxedo continues, due in large part to the tremendous effort of Tuxedo's head professional Tim Chisholm. Over the last two seasons, assistant professional Josh Dodgson has provided energetic support helping Tim further develop all five racquet sports at Tuxedo. In the last two years, approximately fifty members of the Club have taken up court tennis. Highlighting the heightened activity on court, we had record participation in Pennant, a club competition consisting of 4 teams: Greevy's Greats, Moore's Magicians, Gannon's Gladiators and Forrester's Fanatics. Over 100 matches and 2,500 games were played by fifty-four enthusiastic competitors!

The surge of enthusiasm for the game by this new crop of players has also translated into significantly greater travel and participation at tournaments across the country. In the 2013–2014 season, members travelled to Boston (Raise the Roof, USCTA 40s and 50s), Chicago (Wharton Cup, USCTA 60s and 70s), New York (Etchebaster, Silver Racquets), Philadelphia (Lord Percival Cup), and Washington, DC (Cherry Blossom). Emphasizing this emerging travel trend, Tuxedo members also represented the Club in racquets at the Canadian Amateurs in Montreal, the U.S. Amateurs in Detroit and the Kendrick Cup in New York.

During the season, the club hosted two events: the 112th Gold Racquets and one leg of the World Championship Eliminators. Conspicuously missing from the season's calendar was the Hadden Tomes Tournament. In deference to large events associated with the opening of the new court in Chicago and the reopening of Boston's court, Tuxedo cancelled Hadden Tomes. Not to fear, Hadden Tomes and the associated revelry will return in the 2014 – 2015 season!

2014 Gold Racquets

The 112th Gold Racquets Tournament was completed amidst fantastic camaraderie, a high-level racquet sports play, wonderful social events and a dose of 'winter wonderland' with over three feet of snow. All North American clubs were represented at the tournament, and even with a number of consistent event participants having scheduling conflicts, this was the largest Gold Racquets in history. The author feels a brief but heartfelt 'thank you' must go out to Barbara Regna, Guy Devereux, and their respective committees for all their hard work in making the 112th Gold Racquets such a great success.

Gold Racquet singles. With a strong field of sixteen competitors, including former winners Pat Winthrop and Bradley Allen, the Singles competition delivered an exciting display of court tennis. Ultimately the tournament was dominated by Mark Mathias, at the time of competition a fellow at Prince's Court. Mark breezed into the finals with relatively straightforward wins over newcomer Ben Stein (6-0, 6-1), Ben Cook (6-1, 6-3) and Danny McBride (6-3, 6-0). Facing Mark in the finals was Lex Miron, who faced a more challenging path to his last match. He won his initial contest against Nick Jones handily (6-1, 6-0), but then faced two former champions, Bradley Allen in the quarterfinals (1-6, 6-3, 6-5) and Pat Winthrop in the semifinals (6-0, 6-1). In a hard fought finals Lex quickly dropped the first two sets and eventually ceded the title after making a strong run at a turnaround in the third set. The final score was 6-2, 6-3, 6-5.

The Cuspidor

With the continuous introduction by Tim Chisholm of new talent to the Tuxedo court tennis population, the Cuspidor Court Tennis doubles event has continued to grow. This year's event attracted fifty-three participants competing in three divisions. Competitive and entertaining play over the four day tournament delivered the following results:

Moore Division – Guy Devereux (Tuxedo) and Ben Cook (Aiken) defeated Mark Mathias (Washington) and Dan Laukitis (Tuxedo) 6-5, 6-4.

Forrester Division – Josh Scherer (Tuxedo) and Greg Romero (Tuxedo) defeated Amanda Avedissian (Newport) and Arnold Spangler (Tuxedo) 6-4, 4-6, 6-5.

Gannon Division – Rich Mueller (Tuxedo) and Tracey Aberman (Newport) defeated Joe Ehrlich (Tuxedo) and Chris Bruner (Tuxedo) 6-5, 6-5.

World Championship Eliminator Match

The World Championship Eliminators between Tuxedo's own Tim Chisholm finalist and Camden Riviere, was initially slated to provide a unique and thrilling start to the 112th Gold Racquets Tournament. A severe winter storm required that the match be postponed a week. The first leg of the Eliminator series between Chisholm-Riviere delivered a level of play only occasionally seen on Tuxedo's court, providing an entertaining experience for those able to attend. We apologize to all of you who were unable to travel to Tuxedo and who requested streaming coverage. The Tuxedo Club made every effort to deliver online access to the match, but unfortunately our early-20th Century wiring was not up to the task. Plans are in the works to rectify this situation. Ultimately, Chisholm struggled to hold off his former protégé, losing in 3 straight sets (6-3, 6-5, 6-3).

AIKEN, SC (1903)
AIKEN TENNIS CLUB
By Dacre Stoker

Our season opened up in September with a fall league, which was held on Monday nights. This is a team event where participating players are placed onto two teams and then separated into two divisions per team based on handicap. Matches are held between 5-8pm and are accompanied by a spirited social atmosphere with much coaching and good-natured ribbing from the dedans.

Once again our Calhoun Witham Handicap Doubles Tournament attracted a large field of twenty-one teams, this year we introduced a second division; one for players with handicaps above fifty-five. The 35-54 division included sixteen teams Colm O'Shea and Oliver Hawkins of Holyport UK, defeated Michael Moore and Martin Whitmer, Prince's Court and Aiken 4-6, 6-5, 6-1. In the B Division for handicaps 55 and over Shannon Ellis and Warren Dempsey defeated Henry Cato and Cheryl Glance 6-5, 3-6, 6-5.

A full house was entertained as Rob Fahey played Camden Riviere in an exhibition match on November 13th, with a portion of the proceeds going towards the efforts to bring court tennis to Daniel Island, Charleston S. C. Spectators were thrilled, as always, to see such a high level of tennis on our court, and we received a short presentation and progress report by Greg Van Schaack and representatives of the Daniel Island Club.

This past year saw a lot of pool activity in our Clubroom. We were able to complete our handicap singles Bottle Pool Championship for 2013. In the finals between our two best pool players, Morgan Milner defeated Duncan Rutherford two games to nil in a match that was filled with marvelous displays of skill and strategy. Highlighted by a twenty-five point run on his first turn, Morgan's victory was a testament to his ability to make points and billiards while leaving his opponent with little or nothing to work with. Notwithstanding the onslaught, Duncan closed both games so that he was within striking distance of victory in both. The many members who attended the event were treated to a display of talent and accuracy of the highest quality from both players.

The clubroom saw increased activity on Thursday nights with the launching of periodic Backgammon evenings organized by Joe Aulisi. These events got both beginners and advanced players involved by setting up a couple of boards and playing Chouette where players can get advice from their more knowledgeable team members. We plan to continue this new activity next year.

We held our Hank Honeck Handicap Doubles Bisque Tournament in early January; teams were created in such a way as to place players on the court who normally do not have an opportunity to play together. To honor Hank's love of the "bisque", we utilize a bisque or a half bisque in addition to handicapping the matches. As usual this format builds club unity and camaraderie. After the finals, Hank's widow Sandy hosted a wonderful brunch in our Clubroom, where we were treated to a few stories about Hank's very pleasant nature both on and off the court.

In April, the Knox Doubles attracted a field of thirteen teams, where each team played a round robin schedule of at least two matches in four pools. The top two teams in each pool advanced to the quarterfinal round, winners then advanced to the semi-finals and then to the finals on Sunday afternoon. The social events were well attended even if we had to move the Saturday dinner indoors due to heavy rain. Sunday saw an all Aiken final with Rakesh Jasani and Jason Mengel defeating Geoff Ellis and Michael Sullivan in two sets. Wednesday night dinners continue to be a mainstay at our club with many of our volunteer cooks displaying outstanding culinary skills. The dinners have an avid following of club members who regularly attend the event.

The ATC invited five new members this past year to our Club. They were Joseph Aulisi, from Aiken and Saratoga, NY; Brian Owens from New York and Newport; Dan Mayfield from Aiken and Memphis; Joseph Meyer from Atlanta and Aiken; and Michael Moore from Arlington, VA, and Aiken. As usual we are grateful for the efforts by many club members who volunteer their time on a variety of committees to organize the events throughout the season.

TENNIS &amp; RACQUET CLUB

By Ken Forton

I am happy to report that Lake Tambour has dried up and the Tennis & Racquet Club (T&R) court tennis court is back in business. After being on a USCTA tournament hiatus for a few years, we have fixed our roof, refurbished our court, and hosted a number of national tournaments this year. Thanks must again go out to a large list of generous donors, the USCTA, the USCTPF, our club members and staff, and the building owners for their contributions to the roof project. Thanks in part to the renovations and in part to the efforts of our pros, court tennis grew at a quick pace. Court hours were up (one day we clocked fourteen hours on court!), with over twenty new players picking up the game.

Appropriately, the first official post-renovation event on court was the Raise the Roof weekend, which celebrated the court's restoration. It was a memorable weekend of great competition, camaraderie, and (often late night) revelry. The heart of it was a three-day, thirty-team, five-division doubles tournament, with participants hailing from all corners of the court tennis world. The teams of Lex Miron & Todd Meringoff, Adam Inselbuch & Geoff Ellis, Helen Grassi & Paul Bolster, Marc Lewinstein & Josh Scherer, and Adam Haselkorn & Dan Herrick won their divisions. The weekend's events were rounded out by a Racquets tournament, won by Ryan Hayes and Pat Winthrop, and several well-attended parties and dinners. The membership of the Tennis & Racquet Club was humbled and honored by the number of out-of-town guests who made the journey. As a result of the efforts of all involved, Boston's court tennis legacy shall endure. Not long after the court's opening, T&R hosted the National Open, a tournament for US-based pros and amateurs. In early round play, excellent performances came from Jeremy Wintersteen and Tony Hollins. Steve Virgona, fresh off a British Open singles victory over Bryn Sayers, met Camden Riviere in the final. Cam started strong, but Steve fought back in the second set. Ultimately, however, Cam took it in three sets. I cannot express how exciting it was to have a pro tournament back at T&R.

In February, we hosted one of the "level" tournaments, the Burke Cup. Twenty-two participants from a number of clubs began play on Friday morning and ended the evening with a fun cocktail party. Of note was Chase Richter, who picked up the game in Newport and is now a student at Boston College and made it to the semi-finals; we see a promising tennis career in him. Two hometown boys, Matt Breuer and Eric Shabshelowitz, made it to the final, with Breuer taking the gold medal.

Not content with the current ladies offerings on the calendar, ten Newporters, led by captain Petra Napolitano, and eight Bostonians, led by captain Helen Grassi, christened an annual inter-club tournament, the Bread & Roses. Boston took the first trophy six matches to four. This tournament was the first for some of our newest lady tennis players and was a great way to encourage ladies from both clubs to travel and to play competitively. In May, we also hosted an intra-club tournament for new ladies, the Mint Julep, which attracted over a dozen players. These tournaments exemplify T&R's support for the ladies' game.

In April, we hosted the U.S. 40s and 50s. A quality field of players from every active club in the country gathered for a continued celebration of the renovated court at the T&R. Large crowds showed their support for the superb play from both veteran and up-and-coming players. Special mention must be made of John Prens, who is over 60 and played in both the 40s and 50s, both singles and doubles. As a result, he played 14 sets of tennis on Saturday (!) and still had enough energy on Sunday to take the 50s singles and doubles (with Alan McHugh). Lex Miron won the 40s singles, and Wintersteen and Ben Cook won the doubles.

Later in the month, we hosted the Ladies Invitational, which included two quite incredible cocktail parties. The first was on Friday night at the club and was co-sponsored by the club's Board of Governors. The second was tennis-themed, including the food, and was hosted at the home of Matt Mitchell and Magda Malak. Amanda Avedissian won the final over our own Nicole McNeil, and Avedissian and Petra Napolitano defeated Suzy Schwartz and Helen Grassi in a close 6-2, 6-5 match.

As usual, the T&R travel teams were successful in a variety of out-of-town tournaments. In the Newport Handicap, Wintersteen/Spence won the A division. Dave Tedeschi won his division in the Velvet Rope. At the Pell Cup, Arthur Drane won his division. In the Jimmy Knott, which Newport hosted for us for the last time, Wintersteen and Shawn Herlihy made it to the semis. Anders Cohen won the A division of the Chicago Invitational, while Len Mazzone won the B division and Drane the C division. Helen Grassi was finalist in the U.S. Amateur Mixed Doubles.

Our Whitney Cup team did well in their first round but was defeated in the second round. Another rebuilding year may be the ticket to next year's victory. In other tough news, after several years of success at the Patriot Cup, our annual face-off with Newport, T&R finally fell to the National Tennis Club. Ken Forton organized the fifth annual Lakewood Invitational. This fall tennis event continues to attract players from many courts—this year from Philadelphia, Washington, and Boston—to see Gould's historic court and kick off the season.

Team New England (Tony Hollins, Rich Smith, and Camden Riviere) won the National League again this year. At Prince's Court, our boys swept New York. Congratulations to the team! In other League news, the fifth season of T&R's Winter League was a record-breaking success. We had so many players that the format will have to be changed next year. Congratulations to Captain Laura Bostwick and her team, Absolute Players, for taking the Champions Cup.

At this writing, the T&R has 194 players with an RTO handicap, 90 of whom are active (at least one match in twelve months). One-hundred fourteen T&R players are USCTA members. Thanks to our pros, Jimmy Burke and Tony Hollins, for their efforts. Thanks also to Club Manager Tom Dobbins and Finance Manager and Masseuse Janice Pearson. Thanks also go to the T&R Tennis Committee (Arthur Drane, Dick Brickley, Jimmy Burke, Tony Hollins, Ken Forton, Jeff Horine, Jeremy Wintersteen, Matt Mitchell, and Helen Grassi), chaired by Arthur Drane, and to others who help with T&R tennis throughout the year.

THE RACQUET CLUB OF PHILADELPHIA

By Peter Vogt

The past year was hugely successful for court tennis in Philadelphia. We hosted several national events. Our club tournaments were highly competitive and entertaining. While many of the old regulars prevailed, some relative newcomers demonstrated that they are becoming forces to be reckoned with.

Our most important addition this season was our new assistant professional, John Lumley. John made his presence felt immediately by showing great playing skills and enthusiasm for teaching our players how to improve their game. In September, he defeated Camden Riviere in a National League singles match, which put him in a very small club indeed.

The tennis season in Philadelphia gets into high gear with the Jimmy Dunn. This year Rob Whitehouse teamed with Rich Smith and avenged last year's finals loss by beating Barney Tanfield and Lex Miron to win the Open Division. The other division winners were Ryan Carey and Kris Motz in the A, Jim Zug and Gary Swantner in the B, Richard Gilder and Jake McCray in the C, Baird Standish and Richard Griffith in the D, and Amy MacMillan and Jennifer Metzler in the E.

The highlight of the weekend was the dinner honoring Ed Noll, who retired this year after more than forty years of service. Ed started as a teenaged assistant pro under Jimmy Dunn and went on to become head professional and then general manager. He was responsible for much of the Club's success on and off the court during his tenure here. Among many funny and moving testimonials, the best moments came when Mike Noll, also a former RCOP tennis pro, gave tribute to his father. Thanks Ed for all that you did for us!

Fittingly, the Noll Cup was held in Philadelphia in January. A strong field of players vied for the trophy. The last two men left standing were Dick Tanfield and Geoff Ellis who played an epic final. In the end, youth trumped experience as Ellis squeaked the match out 6-5 in the third.

The U.S. Amateur came to town in March. In the singles, Jon Crowell had a great three set win over Danny McBride before succumbing to Mark Mathias in the semis. The final between Mathias and Pat Winthrop was a showcase of two of the best young players in the game.

Ed Noll was honored for his years at The Racquet Club as Head Professional & General Manager

Mathias started strongly, winning the first set and taking an early lead in the second, but Winthrop ripped off six games in a row and won the set. Mathias won the third set convincingly only to see Winthrop race out to a big lead in the fourth. But Pat stalled after he won the fifth game and Mark came back to take the set and the match. The doubles final was even more exciting than the singles. Mathias teamed with James Gould against Lex Miron and Tom McGinnis in a match that went five sets. Miron and McGinnis seemed to have matters well in hand when they jumped out to a 5-1 lead in the fifth set, particularly since Mathias looked tired from his earlier singles match against Winthrop. But then the tide turned and Mathias and Gould cut the deficit to 5-4. At this point, McGinnis stepped up and made several game-saving shots. But McGinnis saved his best for match point, returning a superb Mathias railroad for a winner by hitting it off the winning gallery bandeau.

Teams from Aiken, Chicago, Washington, New York, and Tuxedo spent St. Patrick's Day weekend in Philadelphia competing for the Lord Percival Cup. The RCOP fielded two teams but neither was able to gain the final. Instead, it was the New York team hoisting the plate after beating one Washington team in the semi-final and the other in the final.

Philadelphians enjoyed great success at several levels of the national championships. Dick Tanfield won the U.S. 70s singles and doubles. Paul Monaghan won the U.S. Under 21 singles for the third consecutive year and the Under 21 doubles, while Spencer Yager and Sebastian Yager were the runners-up in the Under 18 doubles. In the Club championships, Jon Crowell successfully defended both his singles and doubles titles. He teamed with Christian Bullitt to beat Norris Jordan and Tom Brownlie in the doubles and triumphed over surprise finalist Kenny Soffer in the singles. Crowell added another title to his resume when he partnered with Sydney Waldron to beat Kathy Carson and Peter Vogt in the mixed doubles. The full list of club tournament winners is set forth below.

Thanks are due to our outstanding professionals Rob Whitehouse, John Lumley, and James Asher and our hard-working Tennis Committee. The future for court tennis in Philadelphia has never looked brighter as this summer we are replacing our lights and painting the court. Hope to see you on court at the RCOP next season!

NEW YORK (1918)
RACQUET & TENNIS CLUB
By Zach Sacks

The Racquet & Tennis Club's professionals, Mike Gooding, James Stout, and Barney Tanfield, led the club once again to a great season. Along with a well-attended National League match, the USCTA Annual Dinner and Auction, and several matches with travelers from English clubs, the R&TC hosted the following USCTA events this season:

Silver Racquet Amateur Singles
New York Open Handicap A, B, & C Singles
Whitney Cup
U.S. Open
Etchebaster Cup
U.S. Over 70s Singles and Doubles

Silver Racquet & New York Open Handicap

The 21st annual Silver Racquet began with a well-attended and fittingly boisterous stag dinner on Thursday night in memory of Eddie Ulmann. Generations of fellow batsmen shared hilarious stories throughout the dinner, helping to build on Ulmann's considerable lore. The climax of the tributes was when Racquets, Tennis, and Squash Committee Chairman, Morris Clothier, announced that the Racquets Court would be rededicated in Ulmann's honor.

Play began in earnest on Friday morning. Singles tennis titles up for grabs were the Silver Racquet Invitational and three flights of NY Open Handicaps. The weekend also included two strong racquets draws (the Silver Racquet paired doubles and the first iteration of the U-35 Handicap Singles) and the Silver Racquet Invitational Squash Doubles, which proved to be one of the highest level amateur doubles squash tournaments of the year.

Tennis matches were hotly contested from the start. Notable early matches in the Invitational included tense three setters between John Prenn vs. Jeremy Wintersteen and Lex Miron vs. Jonathan Larken. NY Open Handicap matches were first to eight game affairs. Players representing clubs from around the world displayed plenty of athletic prowess and exciting matches throughout the NY Open Handicap flights. As an example, Paris' Philippe Travis ousted seven-time US national squash champion Julian Illingworth in the first round of the B flight.

Following the 550+ strong, always epic dinner dance on Saturday night, battles of will characterized the latter rounds of play on Sunday morning. The R&TC's own newcomer

Peter Roessler found a relatively easy route through the middle of the C draw to the finals against Tuxedo's Josh Scherer. Roessler's good gets and use of a racquets-inspired force paved his way to the title.

Paddle tennis maven Ben Stein cruised through the handicap

Zach Sacks

B flight to meet Will Hartigan in the finals. In a close match throughout, Stein's consistency and avoiding the penthouse were just enough for the title.

The A handicap draw featured an impressive run to the finals from the R&TC's Tom McGinnis. He ousted former A champions Zach Sacks and Peter Pell on his way to face Washington's (via the UK) Mark Mathias in the finals. Mathias was having quite the weekend, having dropped only eight games en route to the Invitational finals and defeating, among others, World Racquets Champion James Stout to reach the A Handicap finals.

Scheduled to play back-to-back finals beginning at noon on Sunday, Mathias dispatched the hard-hitting McGinnis with punishing forces and purely-hit floor shots. No matter what McGinnis tried and how close the game score got, Mathias replied relentlessly with flat, center-struck balls. 8-6 to Mathias in the A handicap.

Next up, the Invitational. Having prevailed over Miron in this year's Jimmy Knott final in Newport, the mild-mannered Mathias followed a familiar game plan in what, prior to this tournament, was an unfamiliar court. The Brit's fizzing railroads, extrasensory anticipation, and pure strokes proved too much for an on-form Miron. In a fantastic display of tennis overall, Mathias prevailed in a close two sets.

Whitney Cup

Defending champion New York began the weekend ready to make a run at a third straight title. Last year's finalists Greentree-Aiken entered with hopes of claiming its first title since 2010. Completing the six-team field were veteran teams from Philadelphia, New England, Washington, and Tuxedo-Chicago.

Play in Group I (New England, New York, Tuxedo-Chicago) started Friday morning with New England taking on Tuxedo-Chicago. In taking the first four matches in convincing fashion, dropping fewer than two games per set, New England announced loudly its return. In Group II (Greentree-Aiken, Philadelphia, Washington), Greentree-Aiken dropped only one set in a 5-0 win over Philadelphia.

With New York taking on Tuxedo-Chicago and Philadelphia's battling Washington, Group II play started late Friday afternoon and continued on Saturday morning. Despite many close games, New York and Washington each moved out of the round with 5-0 wins.

Second round matches featured New England vs. New York and Greentree-Aiken vs. Washington. The New York vs. New England match was exciting up and down the roster, with top-quality tennis on display. In the end, New York prevailed 4-1, reaching the finals for the third year in a row. While the Greentree-Aiken vs. Washington skirmish included three hotly-contested, three-set matches, last year's finalists moved on to the finals with a 5-0 win.

Sunday's final started with the seniors on the East Court (Simon Aldrich/Bob Hay vs. Bruce Manson/Chris Moore) and number four teams on the West Court (Rakesh Jasani/Jason Mengel vs. Antony Smithie/Will Thompson). Within an hour, Greentree-Aiken was up 2-0 in matches. At number one, Cook and West were determined to close the match in Greentree/Aiken's favor. Behind a circumspect serving plan and consistent, high-energy play, Ben Cook and Addison West clinched the Whitney Cup for Greentree-Aiken with an impressive straight set win over Spike Willcocks/Chris Arriz. Dropping only one match of fifteen played in its championship run, Greentree-Aiken took the Whitney Cup with authority!

U.S. Open

New York City's relentless Polar Vortex unceremoniously greeted many players' arriving warm from the recent Australian Open in sunny Melbourne. Despite its proximity to the World Championship Eliminator, generous support of this year's U.S. Open from the USCTA and from many local court tennis enthusiasts helped to ensure a top-caliber draw.

The early rounds featured some notable performances. Mike Gooding, R&TC's Head Professional, put in a great effort against Kieran Booth, the world's highest-ranked amateur. While the tight, three-hour contest thrilled the forty-nine year old Gooding's local support base, Booth prevailed in four sets. Booth's consistent play continued in the quarterfinals; the Australian outlasted an on form Ricardo Smith in five close sets. In a bid to capture his second U.S. Open singles title, James Stout, R&TC's Head Racquets Professional, kept his hometown supporters engaged with a four set win over Ben Matthews in the quarterfinals. Stout entered the semifinals against Tim Chisholm, Tuxedo's Head Professional, as the underdog. In what was perhaps the most exciting match of the tournament, Stout and Chisholm exchanged blistering pace, bewildering spin, and stunning gets throughout the five set thriller. In the end, Stout out-touched the veteran Chisholm, 6-5 in the fifth.

Camden Riviere put his World Championship caliber form on full display through to the finals, losing a total of only nine games. In the Finals, Riviere's impeccable control unceremoniously neutralized Stout's otherwise brilliant play. Riviere stamped firmly his mark on his third U.S. Open Singles title, dropping only one game in the finals. With Chisholm, and in dominating fashion, Riviere also went on to capture his third U.S. Open Doubles title over Stout and Gooding.

Etchebaster Cup

With a record forty-nine entrants, this year's Etchebaster Cup was a resounding success. Held jointly with the racquets' equivalent of the Etchebaster, the Kendrick Cup, multi-talented racquet sports enthusiasts filled both draws. A high level of play pervaded throughout the tournament to leave two relatively new players, Peter Cipriano and Will Hartigan, in Sunday's finals. Cipriano's consistent length and home court knowledge prevailed over Hartigan's considerable athleticism. In short, the weekend made clear that the tide of young talent is indeed rising.

Over 70s

The U.S. 70s championship attracted a small but enthusiastic group of participants. The evergreen Dick Tanfield of RCOP progressed through to the final with little resistance, seeing off en route two R&TC members, Bardyl Tirana and Michael Flinn. In the other half of the draw, Jonathan Pardee of Newport came up against a very determined John McLean. The two battled over three hours, with the younger Pardee prevailing narrowly in what was the match of the tournament. The singles final saw a fresh-legged Tanfield race away with the first set without dropping a game. To his credit, Pardee clawed his way back into the match, leveling the second set at four games all. Tanfield gathered his composure and captured the set and the Singles title.

The first set of the Doubles Final was nip and tuck all the way; but, Tanfield and Pardee just edged it out 6-5. The New Yorkers, McLean and Flinn, dominated the second set and third sets' rallies with strong volleying and determined retrieving, taking the second and third sets 6-4 each. It was an excellent weekend of tennis overall for the game's wizened troupers.

CHICAGO (1924) THE RACQUET CLUB OF CHICAGO By An Observer

Another tremendous season marked the second year for the Racquet Club of Chicago. Play amongst our membership has been steadily increasing as more members took up the game and our existing player base continued to play and improve their games. The court is booked on average seventy-five hours per week with lessons, matches, clinics, leagues and tournaments.

The Chicago Invitational weekend kicked off the season in October and was a huge success both on and off the court. Sixty players competed in four divisions in some very competitive tennis.

Joe Tomaino served an unreturnable serve at match point to win the C Division with Arthur Drane over Jay Leonard and John Broussard. Len Mazzone and Charles Buaron took the B Division with a close win over John Murphy and Ben Ringrose.

Despite being hit in the head by a ball in the semifinals, Jamie DeYoung showed his mettle by winning the A Division with Anders Cohen. They defeated the favorites — Adam Inselbuch and Rowan Carroll — in a match that featured fast volley exchanges at net, classic length, and fierce forcing of the openings.

Greg Van Schaack and Steve Virgona won the Open Division over Rich Smith and Jeremy Wintersteen. Van Schaack and Virgona won the first set handily, but Wintersteen and Smith were not going down without a fight and won the second set 6-4. The standard of play from the amateurs was high in the final set as Smith and Virgona upped the pace. Van Schaack had amazing reflex volleys from the galleries while Wintersteen defended against Virgona's dedans forces with tremendous skill. At 40-all, match point, Van Schaack played a superb reaction volley to the base of the tambour to clinch the match 6-1, 4-6, 6-5.

Chicago hosted several USCTA tournaments during the year including the Wharton Cup, the U.S. Amateur Mixed Doubles, the Anne Boleyn Handicap Singles and the U.S. 60s Singles and Doubles. Wes Koontz won the Wharton Cup in a tight match over surprise finalist, Dara Walsh from Prince's Court. The match could have gone either way, but Koontz consistently won the key points. Gary Multer staged a comeback, saving two match points, to win the consolation final over Webber Scott. The U.S. Amateur Mixed and the Anne Boleyn — a women's handicap singles tournament — were held on the same weekend and attracted players from Chicago, Newport, Boston, Washington and the UK. Freddy Adam teamed up with Davis Anderson to win the Mixed over Helen Grassi and Jason Briggs.

The Anne Boleyn final featured two former collegiate lawn tennis stars — Elizabeth Dolan and Farley Lansing — both of Chicago. Lansing took the match 8-3. Good competitive matches, fantastic food and lots of laughs combined for a successful weekend in Chicago.

The U.S. 60s were held during the Final Eliminator weekend in March. Greg Van Schaack captured his sixth consecutive singles title over Charles Johnstone — 6-5, 6-3. Van Schaack, partnered with Howard McMorris to claim his sixth doubles title over Johnstone and Vern Cassin — 6-4, 6-3.

The club also hosted the second and third legs of the first eliminator matches and the Final Eliminator match to determine the 2014 World Championship challenger. The first eliminator was played between Steve Virgona and Bryn Sayers. With Head Professional, Steve Virgona, looking to get to the World Championship for the third consecutive time, the club was in a state of excitement. Virgona had defeated Sayers in the first match at the Queens Club and needed one more win in Chicago to get to the Final Eliminator.

Over 110 spectators packed the club on the night of the match and anticipation was high, as for many it was their first glimpse of world championship level tennis. To no one's surprise, the crowd favorite was decidedly Virgona as Sayers, although one of the world's top players, had never played on the Chicago court was an unknown entity.

Virgona took the first two sets easily winning 6-2, 6-3. A "not up" call against Sayers was a turning point, however, as Sayers, dissatisfied with the call, came back with a new intensity. After a back and forth set, Sayers took the lead at four-all and won the third set 6-4. The fourth set belonged to Sayers who upped the pace with Virgona making errors and missing targets. Sayers won the set 6-1.

Virgona took a 4-1 lead in the fifth set, but Sayers dug deep and brought the score back to 4-3. The crowd was going wild as Virgona went up 5-3 only to have Sayers fight back to five-all. Sayers, down 40-15, fought off multiple match points to win the set and the second leg 6-5.

Forty-eight hours later another packed house awaited the third and final match as all were hoping to see the same caliber of tennis, but with a different result. They were not disappointed. Sayers took the first set 6-1, but Virgona coming back from being down three, won the second set 6-4 and the third set 6-1. Despite a valiant effort by Sayers, Virgona kept the pressure on and won the final set and a ticket to the Final Eliminator, 6-3.

The Final Eliminator between Virgona and Camden Riviere was a rematch of the 2010 contest when Virgona beat Riviere in the "thriller from Tuxedo" match seven sets to six. Riviere came out strong and took a 5-1 lead, but Virgona fought back to tie the set at 5-all. Virgona fought off several set points, but Riviere took charge and won the set 6-5. Despite some great tennis from both players, Virgona was unable to capitalize on his chances and Riviere, playing a consistent error free game, took the lead after the first day 6-5, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1.

The crowd was anticipating Virgona to stage a comeback in the second day. It was apparent, however that he wasn't at his best physically, and despite a spirited attempt at a comeback, Riviere proved to be in command. Riviere won the final three sets to claim the right to challenge World Champion Rob Fahey in Melbourne.

In addition to the U.S. 60s during "eliminator week", the club ran a Final Eliminator Handicap Doubles. Freddy Adam and Nick Browne defeated Anders Cohen and Amanda Avedissian in a spirited final. The week was a great success in terms of play and was a great advertisement for court tennis in Chicago. The week's events were well-organized by the Athletic Chairman, Brad Schwalm.

Our second season came to a close with our club championships, which, as always were keenly contested! Thanks to our pro staff for their hard work throughout the season and for making the game so enjoyable for our membership. We have more than 120 active players, court usage is at an all-time high and our members are actively participating in leagues, clinics, tournaments and social matches. We are looking forward to hosting USCTA events in the 2014-15 season.

WASHINGTON, DC (1997)
INTERNATIONAL TENNIS CLUB
OF WASHINGTON
By Vernon Peterson-Cassin

The focus at Prince's Court this year was on giving back. The annual club league tournament was replaced by a new charity league, with teams playing for the right to select worthy recipients for a pot generously donated by one of our members. Each player also committed to making a donation to a charity of his or her choice. The result was the most successful league competition at Prince's Court in years, as participants competed fiercely for their selected charities. Through the league, Prince's Court members made a substantial donation to the U.S. Court Tennis Preservation Foundation and contributions to other worthy charities including the Alzheimer's Foundation, the Capital Area Food Bank, the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Free Minds Book Club, HIPS, St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital, Unlocking Autism, the Wolf Trap Center for the Performing Arts, and the Wounded Warrior project. Thanks are due to all the contributors and to Steve Hufford and Ivan Ronaldson for conceiving of and managing the league.

The future of court tennis was very much on our minds this year, as Prince's Court members pushed themselves to give more to the game. Two members agreed to match a portion of donations given to the USCTPF, prompting a substantial increase in the number of donations and a more than 70% increase in total amount, as members supported the critical work of the Foundation in developing and preserving the game. Prince's Court members continue to support the exciting work being done in Charleston and have pledged donations for that court in 2015.

Developing the junior game is a priority for Prince's Court, and this year Ellie and Temple Grassi (Chairman of Prince's Court) led an extraordinary effort to spark a new commitment to junior coaching nationwide. Through their generosity, and the hard work of the USCTPF and the USCTA, we hope to see an increase in the number and talent of junior players for years to come. Prince's Court juniors are already taking part in new coaching opportunities this summer, including the junior camp in Tuxedo. Meanwhile, club professionals Ivan Ronaldson and Neil Mackenzie have joined with lawn tennis professionals at Regency to create a combined tennis and lawn tennis junior camp this summer.

Prince's Court continued to host visiting players from England this year, with Mark Mathias, Ben Boddington, and Charlie Harris-Jones each spending several months at Prince's Court. All three spent hundreds of hours on court, improving their games and offering generous on-court instruction. Mark Mathias departed this April after an extraordinary series of amateur victories, including the Gold Racquet, the Silver Racquet, and the U.S. Amateur.

Prince's Court could not have been more pleased with all of our visiting players, and they are all sorely missed. The success of the program was proved when Neil Mackenzie rejoined the club as a full-time assistant professional, a position that had been vacant since the departure of Phil Shannon. Neil almost immediately turned his ankle playing lawn tennis, but has learned his lesson and is already back on his feet giving lessons.

In tournament play, we were proud to host two major tournaments this year, the U.S. Ladies Open and the finals of the National League. The winner of the Ladies Open this year was Claire Vigrass, who competed in the finals against Amanda Avedissian. Ms. Vigrass lost only one game during the course of the tournament, which we believe is a record for a sanctioned Open event.

A large crowd turned out to watch the National League finals, and to attend the Club's annual holiday party (complete with a court tennis themed wine-tasting competition hosted by Steve Hufford). Camden Riviere and Rich Smith of New England played against James Stout and Barney Tanfield of New York. Although New England carried the day, both teams played extremely well and showed exemplary sportsmanship. Alan Goulty and Miguel Browne won the wine-tasting event with their tennis-inspired reviews of red and white wines.

As always, Prince's Court hosted its annual Cherry Blossom tournament, the brainchild of Ryan Carey and Michael Do. This year's tournament was Wimbledon-inspired, complete with court décor, apparel, and strawberries and cream during the Sunday finals. Kris Motz, always ready to lend his expertise to the event, constructed grass-court ping pong tables before the tournament dinner, as well as a court tennis ping pong table complete with penthouses and tambour ("jeu de pong," anyone?).

Club members Christine Donovan, Alan Goulty, and Mark Philpott competed with Ballarat players in the traditional competition for "Kinky," the boxing kangaroo. The kangaroo flag now proudly hangs in Prince's Court, awaiting another challenger.

Finally, Ivan and Christy Ronaldson did their part for the future of the game this year, giving birth on January 9 to Liliana Ronaldson. Ivan is already hard at work training her hand-eye coordination and motor skills, while Prince's Court President Vern Peterson-Cassin lectures her on the important work of the Court Tennis Preservation Foundation. We look forward to seeing her on court soon.

USCTA Membership Report 2013-2014

Peter Vogt (Membership Secretary)

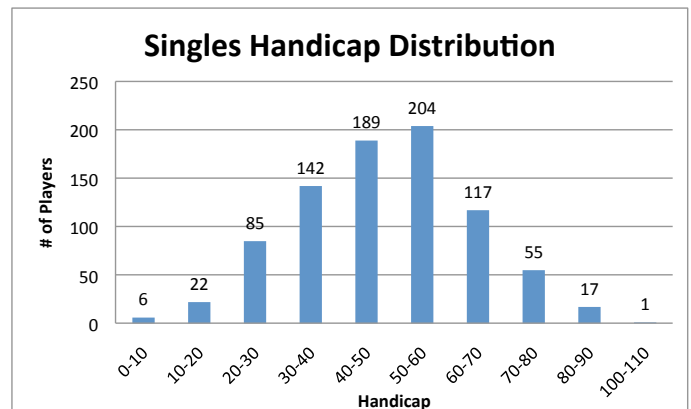

USCTA Membership is at an all-time high, eclipsing the record we set last year. For the second year in a row, we gained roughly one hundred members. The six-year membership summary is as follows:

2013-14: 908
 2012-13: 804
 2011-12: 711
 2010-11: 732
 2009-10: 720
 2008-09: 706

Thanks to Jane Lippincott for managing the RTO database — while there is still work to be done, she has improved the accuracy of our clubs' database information. We plan to continue to the database. Of the 908 USCTA members who are in the RTO handicap system, 86 are women and 822 are men. All but 70 members have handicaps. Listed below are some additional statistics about the members of the USCTA.

USCTA MEMBERSHIP BREAKDOWN

Club	Regular	Junior	Life	Total
Aiken	49	3		52
Boston	99			99
Chicago	108	1		109
New York	278	1		279
Newport	86	11		97
Philadelphia	106	4		110
Tuxedo	53	6		59
USCTA	16	4	1	21
Washington	57	10		67
Overseas	15			15
	867	40	1	908

In order to improve our ability to identify current and potential members, we need to have the individual clubs bill their members as soon as practicable, preferably in September. Members who pay in the fall receive the benefit of membership for the entirety of the following year.

Your dues support the game in many important ways. Our website at www.uscourttennis.org, this Annual Report, and Chase the First are all made possible by your dues. In addition, the USCTA provides national championship medals to amateurs and prize money to professionals. Last but not least, the USCTA helps sponsor player development, particularly at the junior level. Without your support, none of this would be possible. Thank you!

Please encourage your friends who have not yet played court tennis to try it and, hopefully, join the USCTA. With your help, we plan to report next year that we have another hundred new members.

Respectfully submitted,

Peter A. Vogt
 Membership Secretary

USCTA Membership Information

As stated in the Bylaws of the United States Court Tennis Association: "Any person, club, or unincorporated association may be elected to membership upon the approval of the Membership Committee and the Board of Governors."

The United States Court Tennis Association offers annual membership in the following categories:

FULL MEMBER: $75

Full membership privileges available to those under 25 years of age, or attending school or college

OVERSEAS MEMBER: $35

Full membership privileges available to non-American citizens living abroad

Because dues are only part of what keeps this Association going, the Membership Committee and the Board continue to offer additional special categories of membership. Those considering membership in the United States Court Tennis Association are urged to consider these special categories and discuss the benefits of each category with their USCTA representative.

CONTRIBUTING MEMBER: $100 (in addition to the annual dues)

PATRON: $500

BENEFACTOR: $1,000
